What is a Decision/Confirmation Drive?

The D/C run, they will write down your mileage then you will be given a set of directions which will include a point that you will drive to. At that point you must make a decision on which way to turn. If you turn the correct direction you will see something that confirms that you are on correct route. If you don't see the confirmation marker you will have to go back to the decision point and try another direction. The person with the lowest mileage at the finish point is the winner.
